As will he seen from a telegram in another part of the paper, the Hon. W. M. Deane. now Acting Colonial Secretary, has been made a C.M.G. As a reward for good and long service the honour is well merited. As a result of the heavy rain of the last two days, several small landslips have cocurred in various parts of the colony. Thirty feet of a new wall at the Parsee Cometery collapsed yesterday. The water in Pokfulam reservoir had risen this morning to within eleven feet of the by-wash.

WALTER Jackson, assistant to Messrs Lane. Crawford & Co., was summond before Mr Robinson in the Police Court this morning for recklessly firing a gun at Tsim-sha-taui on the 19th inst. It was stated in evidence that the defendant fired two shots which went over the heads of some soldiers who were bathing at Taim-sha-tani. The defendant was dismissed with a caution. THE enquiry into the circumstances connested with the extensive fire which occurred recently in Bonham Strand West We continue to supply large bottles | was to have been resumed by Mr. Wodahouse, but was again adjourned. The search among the ruins at the scene of the are has resulted in the finding of the bodies whenever practicable, are despatched by of the two shopmen, who were unable to escape from the burning building. The bodies had been covered by the heap of debris formed by the fallen floors and walls, and were hardly recognisable. Mr Wodehouse examined several witnesses with reference to the death of these two men, but without eliciting anything to show the setual circumstances under which the fatality occurred. A trader who was lodging in the shop at the time of the fire claimed 479 silver dollars which were found in a heap among the debris, and the money was handed over to him. Two more cooles were brought before Mr. Robinson in the Police Court to-day charged with dumping building subbish into the harbour. The complained of who was Mr. Edward Griffen, overseer, Public Works Department, said he saw the cooling emptying baskets of building rubbish into the harbour near the Victoria Hotel. The cost of clearing away building rubbish thrown in between the City Hall and the Harbour fice where there were drain outfalls had of late been about $1,000 per month. Complainant had cleared away a great deal some months ago, but there was now more THE Upper Floors of our Stanley Street than when he began, the dumping going on feater than the stuff could be cleared away. Yesierday he saw at least twenty different coolies dumping zubbish. The defendants were fined $10 each, with the siternative of six weeks hand, labour

I have to express heartfelt sorrow and sympathy with him in his loss, a sorrow and sympathy which I am sure will be fully shared by the piness of knowing Mrs Goodman will know how and the loss is. Under these circumstances the learned counsel engaged in this case have requested that the hoaring of the case be adjourned, a request to which I readily accede, as a very small tribute of the sorrow and sympathy I feel. I cannot say more. I shall adjourn the Court till Tuesday next .- Mr Francis said : I think I may say, my Lord, on behalf of my friend (Mr Leach) and myself, as well as the other members of the Bar who are not here, and who may not have heard of the sad event. that we all deoply sympathise with the Attorney General in the very severe loss he has suffered. A RATHER disagreeable incident has just ocourred at Tokyo, which shows that the Japanese, although they have made great strides in civilisation, have not got rid of all the traits of barbarism. The Rev. J. Summers, a missionary at Tokyo, while passing along a street in his pony carriage, happened to meet the Empress Dowager and her escort. He drove his vehicle to the side of the street to allow the Imperial equipage to pass, When the lancers who were riding in front-of the Imperial carriage came opposite the place where he was, one of them knocked off his hat with the butt of his lance. Mr Summers was not injured, but he was naturally very indignant at the insult. He was quite prepared tompcover at the proper moment, and the violent conduct of the lancer was an altogether uncalled-for breach of discipline. Mr Summers complained to the British Minister, and it is stated that the soldier was punished for his misconduct. The matter might have ended here, had it not been that very garbled versions of the affair appeared in the native papers, according to which Mr Summers wished to deliberately insult the Empress. Some hot-blooded youths of Tykyo thought they were called upon to show their patriotism by coming forward as champions of the Empress. One of them went to the missionary's house and upbraided him, Mr Summers treated the man civilly, but being disturbed by the roughness of his language, summoned the police and handed over the intruder to them. The police on investigating the affair, saw no reason to keep the bot-headed imperialist in custody, and he was reprimanded and released. Subsequently a threatening epistle reached Mr Summers. and afterwards three men came to hu house, one of them carrying a letter which warned him that the souhi of Hongo intended to give him a besting. They were all arrested, and taken to the police station. The Honourable Mr Napier, First Secretary of H.B.M. a Legation, hearing of the trouble at Mr Summers' house, paid a visit to the family, and being present when the bearer of the second letter arrived, took the youth by the collar and thrust him out. Mr. Summers, in order not to be Yokohama.

Such was the doctrine advanced by Malthus many years ago. It egitated the economical world not a little. But since then economists have perceived a principle of another kind, namely, that wealth is the result of labour, and that every increase of population is in effect an increase of wealth. GLADATONE'S VIEWS ON THE SUBJECT OF

New York, April 24. - The Mail and Gladstone's second article in Good Words written in contradiction of the recent assaults on the Rible, deals with the croation in a highly characteristic and original manner. Gladstone contends that the opening of the book of Genesis constitutes plain and straightforward narrative of the pre-Adamite period.

He maintains that it is noither postic nor scientific in mouning, nor can it be considered so an interpretation, but it was, 10 says, a direct communication from God to teach primitive man his proper place in creation, and to give him a conception in a broad outline as to what his maker had been about on his bohalf. He considers the days of creation to be neither solar nor geological, but simply convenient istoric divisions without any occult moan-

Only in respect to the creation of light does Gladstone descond to a rigid scientific criticism. He discusses the events which that the book of Genesis is a true account of the evolution of the world, and with a view of leading up to the conclusion that the ordnings of nature and giver or guide of the story of creation are one and the

THE ACTIVE ENTAITS OF THE CZAR. London April 20, The Czar and his family have taken up their residence at Gatschina, despite the forebodings of the rolice, and nothing has happened there since their arrival on Tuesday. But St. Petersburg is convulsed by the announcement of the discovery of a plot to secure secret plans of the fortresses and by the suicido of an artillery staff officer.

The money for the former business was found by Baron Pleasen, a Garman naval attaché, who has in consequence left Russia, having received a not over-polite hint that the climate might not commune anitable for his health. The artillery of ficer, there is no reason to doubt, was a member of the recently anearthed military conspiracy against the Czar's life, and killed himself to avoid arrest.

But the most startling thing of all is the fact that the revolutionary taint has actually spread to the imperial family itself. The venne Grand Duke Constantine has acquired the dangerous and unprincely habit of writing, and has written a poem addressed to the young men of Russia. Here is the prose translation, obligingly telegraphed by the correspondent of the Daily News :

My friend and my brother, whose trials are so many, whose griefs are so sore, whoever thou art, do not despair, for God knows all-both all the wrong, and all tho misery. Our sacred ideal is desecrated and shattered and the blood of innocence is flowing everywhere. Yot give not up. All obstacles must fall. Holy Freedom shall tear the crown of thorns from off her brow. She shall burst her chains asunder, shake the cross from off her shoulders, and reign at last triumphant. Tais, my friend, is no poet's dream, no vain hope,

Look about you. Evil is rampant every where. Deepest night surrounds us. The fatherland is weakened by suffering and storped in blood, and turns its tearful eyes to heaven and begs for mercy. Lamthotempter of fate. Capricions distiny has given mp wealth and honor and power. What are hey to me? The cold dark grave will swallow all. But nature's gifts are dearer to me. She has given me song. I will cheer you to the battle against evil. I ask you not to receive me for the blood which courses through my veins, but because I too, am prepared to give my life for the good and the glory of our common mother, Russia." The Czar's position-is a painful one. There are, of course, precedents for imprisoning and even murdering a Russian dake, but modern ideas are not without their influence in Russia, and if Constanting's folly is to be noticed at all will probably suffer no worse a fate than temporary confinement in a lunatic asylum or a short term of seclusion in some distant

A ROYAL ROMANCE. Loudon, April 20. - The Czar of Russia i attempting to spoil one of the pretties royal romances of the age. He has just bruken off the engagement between his cousin, the Grand Dake Michaelowitch, and the beautiful Countess Ignatieff daughter of the Russian Embassider to Turkey.

The engagement between these young people (the Duke is only 23 years of age and the Countess five years vounger) was the result of love at first eight. The Count Ignatieff, however, is not a persona grata with the Czar, and hence his objection to his consin's wish to ally himself so closely with the diplomatist's family. Many compromises were suggested, bu none proved acceptable to the Czar until Grand Duke Michael offered to relinquish all his titles and privileges and live abroad with his wife. To this the Czar consented. but Count Ignatioff objected, as he considers himself destined to play such an important part in Russian politics that he will be able to arrange the marriage on his own terms in the course of time. Consequently the Grand Dake has been sent to travel, and the young Countess has been appointed a maid of honor to the Czarina: AMAZON WARDIORS.
